Just as a ruthless band of werewolf hunters descend upon the town, Tim must decide whether he is going to stay and fight or turn his back on what he really is.

A HISTORY OF HARBOR MOON

Harbor Moon, Maine was founded in the 1930's by young traveler John O'Callaghan. Being the sole survivor of the massacre at his family's ranch, the young boy set out in search of a town far enough away that he could just escape... Along his travels he met other people like him and together they built what has become a self-sustaining community in the far reaches of the North East. Harbor Moon is home to less than 600 residents who make their living raising cattle or operating businesses that cater to members of the town. Although crime is almost non-existent, their Sheriff also acts as the de facto mayor. John kept a journal about what happened to him and his vision for the town, and currently this tome is on display at the Harbor Moon library, connected to the schoolhouse.
